President's Corner

Ernie Glover, President

Let's all hope that this year brings new hope, lost freedoms and prosperity. My wish for everyone this year is good health and that everyone has a goal that you will strive to achieve and excel in. We had a good start to the year with some old members joining again practice what we learned.

The January theme for the month was Churches that kicked our annual competition off. There were a lot of interesting takes of Church photography with worthy winners. Lindsay Garratt did an excellent Model photograph workshop with a very talented model Faith who did some modeling work for us to practice what we have learned.

Congratulations to the winner of the January themed competition:

What are all the kinds of photography?

- Portrait photography - It is all about capturing the mood and expressions of your subject.
- Candid Shots - Photographers capture moments very spontaneously. These pictures are not planned and give out a very relaxing effect.
- Street Photography - The streets don't have a specific theme or concept, which allows you to explore your artistic freedom. Moreover, an added advantage is that different types of cameras can be used for street photography. The streets offer many different subjects from vendors to graffiti artwork.
- Still photography -A lot of things go into still life photography – perfect lighting, good backdrop, proper composition and a tripod for trying out different angles. Most photographers use a light box to remove shadows and lighten the product from all angles. Still life photography is especially used by brands who want to advertise their products.

- Landscape - It's all about capturing the beauty of this Earth. In this type, the common landscape views are land, sky and water.
- *Food photography- R*emember to always make use of natural light. Flash is a big 'No' in food photography.
- Macro photography - If you are aiming to click exceptionally mind-blowing images, then macro photography is definitely one of the types of photography you must try. Macro photography is all about capturing artistic and compelling shots. It is all about capturing objects to make them look bigger than they actually are. This type of photography is pretty.

- Wildlife photography - Timing, angle and patience play a very crucial role in wildlife photography.

Here are some more types of photography, will you help me with more ideas on different types of photography. What did I forget?

- Sports photography
- Fashion photography
- Wedding
- Documentary
- Travel
- Underwater
- Aerial
- Night
- Commercial
- Long exposure
